

≡ Item Navigation

Meet and greet

Earlier in this lesson, Dan introduced himself and shared his career path from being a math teacher to being a Sponsorship Coordinator for a professional soccer team to his current role as a Program Manager at Google.

Now it's your turn to introduce yourself! Write a 5–10 sentence introduction that gives your fellow learners a good idea of who you are. If you don't know what to write, here are a few suggestions:

- Tell your fellow learners which country or city you're from or where you currently live (don't include your address, though).
- Share a time or two that you've been project managing on some level and what skills you used.
- Discuss what you expect from this program and what you hope to achieve.
- Talk about your educational background and your career path up to this point.
- Describe your interests outside of work.

Then, visit the discussion forums  to check out what others have shared about themselves. Connect with at least two of your fellow learners.

Participation is optional

Your Reply

Type your response here...

B I U  $\Sigma$       $X_2$   $X^2$

Reply

